

What Are You Actually Purchasing When You Buy a Copier?

With most dealers, when you purchase a copier, that's just what you get: a machine and the accessories you choose. That's when the surprises start: delivery fees, install fees, networking fees, and the list continues. You need to be careful when looking for copier sales, as you could easily end up having to "buy" a whole lot more than a machine. This is true if you buy either a new or a used copier.

When you purchase a copier from Consolidated Copier Services this is not the case. As an award winning "Elite Dealer," what sets Consolidated Copier Services apart from other copier dealers is that we don't believe in charging you extra for choosing our company.
